Dedication

The KERNEL is proudly inscribed with great respect and profound admiration to Mr. W. E. Coon, whose vitalizing presence and magnetic personality have left an indelible impression upon us all during his first year as principal of Strong Vincent High School.

The Senior Class of Strong Vincent High School

presents

THE KERNEL

"We have kept the kernel,
and have thrown the rest away."

Editorial Board

Tom Merrick.....	Editor in Chief
Robert Baur.....	Associate Editor
Mary Fitzmaurice.....	Business Manager
William Fowler.....	Literary Editor

The Editorial Board, composed of Seniors who are prominent in many activities apart from journalism, has earnestly worked toward achieving a definite, worthwhile goal—that of reviving the yearbook custom at Strong Vincent after this fine tradition had been broken in 1933 because of lack of funds. We realize that the result of our efforts—this publication—is but the first step in that direction, and we are sorry that conditions made it impossible to present a larger issue. However, we hope that in future years we may be remembered as the pioneers in restoring the annual to represent the graduating Seniors and the school which gave them some of the finest experiences of their life. We have enjoyed and have benefited from the interesting work which was entailed in preparing this book, and we extend our heartiest thanks to Miss Bennett, Miss Pearce, and Mr. Humphrey, the faculty members who have so ably cooperated with us in making the KERNEL possible.

History of the June Class, 1935

It has been pleasantly convenient for us to sympathize with ourselves for happening along while a brutish depression was raging all about. But whatever reason we may assign to our inactivity, the fact remains, unchallenged, immutable, that our class, as such, did little less than nothing during the first three years of its existence. True, we did attempt a small dance, but it collapsed in such a terrific manner as to preclude any other similar notions we might have had. We rested, obdurately faithful to our resolution to keep our slate clean of any more spots like the first. But then, upon our ascendancy to the Lofty Throne, a driving fetish for activity seized us, and we restated our guiding tenets so as to admit the most daring enterprises. The startling, uncompromising swing to the Left by the Administration left us momentarily gasping for breath. Committees were evolved; a definite decision in the affirmative sent the newly-selected KERNEL board scurrying to do its bidding. An ambitious budget plan was devised to help ease the financial load upon the Seniors, but this worthy project died a slow death. The groups in charge of the Class Play, the Prom, the Banquet, Class Day, and the final Commencement, raced precipitantly forward, bringing each of these functions to a glorious realization of our fondest dreams. We have labored; we have played; we have pioneered in some fields, and have failed dismally in others. We have caught the Torch of Progress exultingly, advanced it, and ere long, will lay it down. Be it yours, undergraduates, to carry forward!

REVENIT

by William Fowler

Once upon a time, as all good stories commence, a long, long while ago, there was a bad fairy—much worse than any other bad fairy in the whole world. He lived in the Land of Second Rate, and ruled over it with a strong hand. Everything was very bad there. The Land was completely under the rule of this particularly bad fairy, and he had such power there that it was extremely difficult for anyone, once caught within the border, to make an escape.

A Man, from the Land of Nowhere in Particular, wandering at random, found himself in Second Rate Land one time. Not having come yet to the Land of First Rate, he was nothing loathe to remain in this new country for a time. This made it simple for the Bad Fairy to gain absolute control of the newcomer, and he was mightily pleased.

It came to pass then, that the Visitor became an Old Resident, and entered into Second Rate affairs constantly. In fact, he became almost as wicked as the Bad Fairy. He was a past master in Badness, perhaps because he had never learned of Goodness. Let us be charitable, anyhow, and say that is what caused his Downfall.

At last, things became so utterly bad in the Land of Second Rate, that even the Old Resident became weary of it. With much sly cunning, and after great difficulty, he escaped, not caring particularly into what country he went, but anxious to get away from this Land of Second Rate. He wandered for a long time, and found other lands, but they were all equally as bad as the old place. But every fairy story must have a Good Fairy.

So, in his wanderings, not knowing where he was, nor much caring, the Traveller came upon a Good Fairy, who told him about the Land of First Rate. He was directed to this land, but not escorted. The road was rough, and often he stumbled and nearly gave up the journey. But the Good Fairy had painted such an exquisite picture of the new country that he always rose, and plunged on.

He followed the directions that the Good Fairy had given him, and gradually, the land changed in appearance, and the people seemed to be of a different sort. Once, as he journeyed, weary and starving, he was beset by a storm. The wind was raging, and rushing over the short, stiff grass, whining out to meet the roaring sea, and blowing back to shore the clouds that raced behind the hills. There was still an Adventure in Life—and He was returning to face it. He felt a great exultation surge through his body, and he staggered in the wind. He was alone—and He was happy—happy as he had never been before. He fancied then, that he saw the Sunshine once again, and he saw the swallows hang low in the evening sky.

And Behold!—He was a Man once more!

Last Will and Testament

BE IT KNOWN—That we, the June graduates of Strong Vincent, being in the lowest state of mentality, mind and memory, and realizing the fateful uncertainty of the outcome of our fast approaching exams, hindered by our senile infirmities, have with great effort hobbled to general assembly, and therein, in manner and form following, do make, publish, and declare this to be our last Will and Testament, to wit:—

To the coming February graduates we bequeath all of the bustle and consternation that was ours at this fateful time, and do direct them to accept the bequest with the same scowls and grimaces that were borne upon our own intelligent visages.

To the Juniors we bequeath our unaccomplished ambitions, along with an abundance of mangy pencil stubs and cartoon-filled notebooks.

To the Sophomores we bequeath the youthful pride of growing up that once was ours, and do admonish them to guard it against the scars which months of gruelling study may leave upon it.

To the Freshmen we leave only our sympathy.

In addition to the above noble bequests, the following individuals munificently bequeath certain pet idiosyncrasies and worn out possessions, in whatever condition they may be:—

Robert Baur bequeaths his golden ladder to any ambitious undergrad climber, and generously leaves his hatband to Punk McCormish, who can use it for a belt. Kirk Wilks takes the opportunity to give his flat feet to Charlie Chaplin, and Tom Merrick leaves his headaches to the next editor of the year book. "Pappy" Hays says that the Kentucky Mountaineers may have his whole outfit. Patsy Dugan doesn't doubt that Herman Goetz could use his 9th street haunt, while Leech Brownyard leaves on somebody's shoulder. Emory Austin donates a shovel to the same fellow who gets Bob Steiner's bucket of soft soap. The cats that Ed Clapp has strangled go to any violin factory, and Pete Krimmel leaves his mumps out of the discussion. Anne Walden's line goes to a rope factory, Hal Murtland's razor blades to the collection plate, and Ted Scarlett's bright colored neckties to the traffic department. We have persuaded Bob Kienholz to split his ability to study among the Freshmen. Tom Prendergast needs no encouragement to leave Miss Wright. We've pleaded and begged but Bob Conover won't leave Alice, and Warren Hilditch can't leave Harriet. The whole junior high receives Tyco Lange's height, and Harold Nyberg leaves Sam Kramer with difficulties, as does Mike Meschino. Cyril Le Voie gives his touch of grace to the pansies in any garden, and Miss Connell is remembered as she receives an innocent look from Dorothy Shank and a smile from Betty Murphy. The winning way of Marion Sheehan goes to the Irish at large, and it was hard to get Bill Root to leave school, let alone anything else. Homer Bean thinks that his Austin should certainly go to Mr. Anderson. Chestine Kuebler's driving ability goes to the Auto Hospital, while Patty Barringer leaves a tear with dear old Vincent. Dick Davis says that anyone is welcome to his ability to bluff Miss Connell, and Wally Dyckes leaves his aptitude at skipping to the next Seniors. Chuck Emiling's bashfulness goes to Tom Durbin, Jack Fatica's locker to his three pals, and Jack Freed's size to Lilliputia. Simone Fronzaglia thinks his pull with Miss Peters should go to the curtains, and Carl Gillespie gives his experience as a council representative to the council. Bill Hastings thinks that Miss Bryce would do well with his measles, and Judson Heck takes the opportunity to leave his name to the League of Decency. Harold Hilliard leaves his perfume to the five and ten, and Ronny Jackson's hunting trips go bad. Howell James' nicknames are left to the boys and girls in the J. B. Club. Donny MacDonald's scottish-ness goes to the highland lads, Ina Argelander's charming smile to Katherine Hauck, Margaret Brooks' many admirers to Garbo, and Marjorie Stein's sylph-like figure to the movies. June Strickler had to be persuaded to leave her charms to Moreland, while Helen Nicklas doesn't like to part with her lovely personality—and who can blame her? Olive Schroyer's persistence goes to Marion MacArthur, and Betty MacDannell leaves her intellectuality to Greenwich village. Mary Fitzmaurice's business ability goes to Mr. Humphrey, Helen Doyle's quietness to the cemetery, and Mary Conti's brilliance to the footlights. Epple Gifford leaves by the nearest door. John Griffin's quietness goes to the study halls and George Meyer's contagious chuckle is left to circulate in Miss Connell's class, which Alice Flanagan takes the opportunity to leave silently. Esther Goodwin's dancing ability goes to Rainbow Gardens, and Ardice LaGrange has enough personality to distribute among a great many people. Mary Griffin leaves her charms with Steve Stroup and Marion Brei's wholesome character goes to the Ziegfeld Follies. Eleanor Dana leaves her timid ways to Alice Lavery. Alice McCarthy wills her dependability to Henry Ford, while Twila Hewitt says anyone can have her first name. Eileen Kelly cannot part with her Best-dancer's title, and Marjorie McGill cannot be persuaded to leave her curls with the barber. Sara Louise Schmitz can spare about half her weight to Wealtha Fields. Evelyn Schneider's twisty dancing goes to anyone without rheumatism. Suzette Standcliff is willing to give her first name to any French demoiselle. Elvira DeCecco's many mistakes in English can be divided among the next class, and Rose DoNofrio's repeated attempts at argument with Miss Connell go to no consequence.

Betty Lynch's piety is left to any convent, and Jeanne Mahoney's sweet Irish smile goes to Maureen O'Sullivan. Undeen Dawson's skyscraper aspect is bequeathed to New York. Pete Valimont's speed on the track goes to the new stream-lined trains, Ed Wagner's mien to any prosperous butcher, and Ray Vanstone's slinness to a bean pole. Fred Weber can easily afford to leave about ninety pounds to any skinny undergrad. Ralph Avery finds it hard to leave Mary behind, but Bob Baldwin leaves Miss Peters' homeroom with ease. Al Benacci grants his big smile to Dentyne, and Lee Boetger's fine tennis playing could be used by Bill Tilden. The famous Bonney eyebrows go to Madeline Arrowsmith, who has none. Don Brown wishes he could leave scads of ice cream to us all, and Dave Chase should be glad to dispose of his plow stride to any future farmer. Dick Conover's big brown eyes go to blind Justice. Art DeGeorge is finally able to leave Hattie's office for a while. Gerald Dailey's attraction to room 217 goes to anyone interested. Jack Doyle's football stripes really could be used by any prison. Marion Kuch's nickname of Tarzan is left to Shirley Butler. Myrtle Lane's many friends might come in handy to a politician, and Rita MacArthur's quietness will be appreciated by the hall Monitors. Lillian Schutte's sparkling eyes are left to Mickey MacArthur. Marion Towne's cute Irish pug nose is happily left to Phil Ostrow. Geraldine Vincent's hair goes to the Gorgons, and Harriet Steinfeld's wholesome way is bequeathed to Elaine Jack. Rose Pellegrinelli leaves her name to anyone desiring to form a new alphabet. Herta Pamin's pleasant manner goes to Alice Swenson, and Betty Nuber's efficiency really could be used by some stenographers. Eleanor Mitchell has too nice a personality to leave to anyone, but Betty Miller gladly donates a few inches of height to the Junior High. Jean Brennan has a nice smile that Miss Hearn could use. Olga Chetoni's well-meant attempts will linger in the atmosphere of room 110. Alice Engel's vacuous gaze is received by everyone who looks at her. Marion Gorenflo's blond locks will be a fine advertisement for a peroxide company. Margaret North's wise passiveness is bequeathed to her younger sister, and Margaret Zell wants her fetching way to go to any old maid. Anna Willard leaves her journalistic aspirations to Madeline Arrowsmith, even if Bill is a P. G. Josephine White leaves her name to the night. Virginia Ross leaves Bob Brownyard with the leeches, and Mary Helen McCarthy thinks it is about time to give her bluff in English Class to anyone who wants to try it. Marion Stern's lack of pull with Miss Burger goes to Bill Blair, Virginia Tambash's smile to the Pepsodent Company, and Althea Allen's voice to someone who doesn't care to be heard. Etta Keil's freckles naturally are received by Ella Cinders. Ed Thiemann gives his beard to the Smith Brothers, and Bob Zimmerman's pull with Mr. Shanor goes to any future farmer. Cliff Neubeck's ability to work problems speedily is left behind in the dust of the Physics lab. John Vorberger's Beau Brummel attire goes to Bill Walker. Jim Shoemaker takes the opportunity to leave Shadow Wert. Leo McCabe has to leave Mary Jane Vorberger in Miss Willard Wright's torture chamber, and Bill Feisler's pull with Hattie goes to the dogs. Gabriel Cutri takes advantage of the chance to leave his build to Jim Londres. Warren Jones generously donates his eyes to Myrna Loy, and George Lux's last name to the girl's hosiery department. Tom McCarthy wills himself to Emerald Isle, as Doug Pope graciously leaves his sloppy walk to Bob Allison. Bill Braendel gets Ed Monola's white hair, and of course Miss Burger is the recipient of a farewell smile from Owen Nunamaker. Donny Nystrom bequeaths his Copenhagen snuff to the Ten Thousand Swedes. John Openlander leaves school in a hurry in his Chevvy. Jerry Fuller's "big brave man" air is lavished on Margaret Brooks. Dorman Hanks is able only to leave a lot of hot air in the already too warm halls. Jimmy Restivo's pep goes to Jimmy DiSantis, and Willard Nelson just takes leave. Margaret Lucore leaves her Parisienne air to the gay demoiselles, and Jimmy MacIvor's buck teeth to Albert Lipsett, with Bill Kramer coming in for a share of Bill Dorsch's man-about-town swagger. Walter Larson leaves his love for Math to Miss Turner, and Bob Dolan's good Irish straight-forwardness simply cannot be left behind. Fred DiPlacido just leaves—and is the faculty glad! John Cochran's air is left to Tom Durbin, and Bob Daily's reputation as a bluffer goes only to Major Hoople. Bob Roland leaves his pull at the Y to Tom Bettles. Vic Serena's ability to get in under the late bell to Miss Schabacker, and Elmer Baumgardner's whiskers are left to Gillette. Jeanne Moreton bequeaths her double chin to Betty Sisson. Frances Steward's ever-present wad of gum is left in the waste basket, while Dot Zimmerman's red hair goes to Alice Lavery. Eunice Ames wants to leave her affections with Bill Davis. Frances Biggie's petiteness is generously left to Dot Kreichbaum, Evelyn Collin's bangs to Kate Kepburn, and Mary Margaret Dougherty's nickname of "Skinny" to Margaret Rice. George Carr leaves school, only to return to take English V. Bob Hutchings finds it hard to leave Jean O'Donnel behind, and Bob Baptist will have difficulty in leaving Janet Griffith alone. Anita Foster leaves to rush to Harry's side, and Betty Mathes wills her peroxide to Harriet Zesinger. Dick Boyd's way on the piano goes to Little Jack Little, and Rita Aumer parts from school to be a bar maid. Marion Cox leaves with Johnny in his Chevvy, while Betty Kuhn leaves her Southern accent to Jojah. Rose Locke leaves in a fainted wise passiveness. Margaret Phelps' pleasing personality, we think, should go to the faculty at large. Margaret Brown's studious nature is willed to Eleanor Dana, and Myrtle Hubbard leaves her silence to a hospital zone. Alice Burns decided to bequeath her red hair to Rachel Zacks. Don Clark's vacant stare to Stan Laurel. Dick Nagosky wills his looks to George Raft. Don Paterson's cynical attitude goes to Huey Long, and Phil Ahlquist's track performance to Leo Harkins. Joseph DiTullio's hair, we think, ought to go to a good barber. The Junior League gets Alina Adessi's debutante slouch, and Miss Hart receives Lillian Best's flightiness. Again Huey Long is remembered as he gets a line from Virginia Bick. Fannie Cutri leaves her criticism of the other fellow to Voltaire. Betty Britton gets Angeline Rossi's amiability, and Joan Cronin's hat band might also fit Punk. Evelyn Markham, Mildred Raid, and Theresa Farrell take each other's arms, and leave in a great spurt.

Last Will and Testament

Therefore, in consideration of the above stated premises, on this 1st day of May, 1935, we set our hand and seal to this, our Last Will and Testament, and hie ourselves off to be fitted for our shrouds.

ATHLETICS

ATHLETIC COACHES

*First Row: Mr. McCarthy, Mr. Weibel, Mr. Kramer.
Second Row: Mr. Humphrey, Mr. Wallach, Mr. Cochrane, Mr. Gustavson.*

No finer proof of the excellent work which these mentors have accomplished can be given than the unalterable, undisputed records of the teams they have coached. Sam Kramer gave the west side its first city championship football team since 1920—a team that swept its foes aside, conquering, achieving, exulting—knowing the feel of clean-cut victories over Erie East, Academy, Tech, Farrell, Jamestown, and others. Ably assisting Sam with both the gridders and the fine basketball team were Bertil Gustavson, Kenneth “Red” Cochrane, John Wallach, and Justin McCarthy. Art Weible, responsible for the powerful swimming combination which won city championship and quadrangular honors, and also coach of Vincent’s classy water polo team, has made his ability known to Strong Vincent in a way that will not be forgotten. Our track squad was under the direction of “Red” Cochrane, who developed this organization into the outstanding body it was. In tennis, we are indebted to Mr. Humphrey for the splendid cooperation he has given in molding the Vincent racket wielders into a highly formidable team. Miss Weinheimer, has come through another successful year of coaching girls’ athletic activities, instilling in them the unrivalled benefits of her deep insight into this line of work. It is impossible to give anything like full credit to our athletic coaches in the small space provided for that purpose. Once more we must proudly refer the reader to the records of the teams of which they assumed such capable charge.

The Athletic Season—1934-35

It is indeed a happy privilege to be able to summarize the past year of athletics at Strong Vincent. Beyond a question of a doubt, it has been the finest, most completely satisfying season that our school has yet enjoyed. The biggest sport of all—football—produced the greatest team that has ever worn the Red and Black. In swimming, we gained decisive victories over all other Erie schools and scored a clean sweep in the two championships, taking the city title first, and then triumphing in the brilliant quadrangular which saw records fall left and right. Our basketball team made up for its early losses, which were all through very close scores, by ending the season with a powerful surge and proving themselves to be the leading team in the city. Vincent has always boasted a fast, dependable track team, and the organization this year was one of the Colonels' best. Golf and tennis, two worthy sports which begin competition too late for inclusion in a yearbook, can only be briefly commented upon here. The golf team should certainly "go places" with Mike Zack, Carl Larsen, and John Siegel, three veteran members, to compose its main talent. These boys have all had at least one year of scholastic play previous to 1935, and are sure of turning in some fine scores. Another city championship looms very prominently for Strong Vincent—that of tennis. The squad is composed of a large group of ambitious would-be Tildens, headed by Lee Boetger and Tom Merrick, two ranking players who are listed among the first five junior net stars of Erie County. Man for man, our tennis team is the strongest team any Erie high school can put on the courts this year. Water polo, too, must come in for its share of commendation, as must the various intra mural sports which were conducted with such success during the past season. These contests, held in a wide range of athletic activities, were for both boys and girls, and many fine athletes were discovered in the progress of the indoor tournaments. Champions were crowned in basketball, boxing, wrestling, and other sports, and everyone was given a chance to demonstrate his talents along whatever lines he chose. We are all very happy over the tremendous strides Vincent has taken toward athletic supremacy in all fields of scholastic endeavor. We are proud of the teams, proud of the coaches, and proud of the student body which supported them so loyally. There is every reason to look forward with keen anticipation to future years, in which we shall expect to see an even greater Strong Vincent march with even more determined steps toward the coveted goal of undisputed superiority and good sportsmanship.

Football

The 1934 season of the Strong Vincent football team was the finest ever enjoyed by a Red and Black aggregation. The complete record for the year—eight victories against two defeats—is a clear statement of proof as to the power displayed by the Fighting Colonels throughout their difficult schedule. But when one considers that we won the scholastic gridiron championship of Erie for the first time since 1920, he is even prouder of those fine boys who played first-class ball from opening whistle to closing gun. The two defeats suffered by the Colonels this year were at the hands of Prep in a game that was decided by breaks, 0-6, and of North Braddock, a veteran club, 0-18. A glance at the complete scoring total offers further testimony to the greatness of the 1934 team which rose to undreamed-of heights, especially in the all-important City Series conflicts. Strong Vincent in its 10 games scored 149 points while holding the opponents to 43. Some of the most pleasing and well-deserved victories were those over—East, 7-6; Academy, 19-0; Tech, 20-0; Jamestown, 13-7; and Farrell, 12-0. The most fitting climax to the brilliant careers of such outstanding stars as Captain Jack Doyle, Jimmy Thomas, Mike Soccoccio, Chuck Cerrona, Dick Conover, Bob Dolan, and Al Benacci was that final game with Academy which awarded the coveted City Championship to the Red and Black after 14 long, discouraging years. To these boys, as well as to the rest of that history-making team, and to a master coach—Sam Kramer—we say "Good Work!" Long may the glory of the championship of Erie remain within the walls of its rightful owner—Strong Vincent High School!

Basketball

Although not successful in its quest for the city title, the basketball team, by virtue of a magnificent spurt late in the season, won the plaudits of everyone and demonstrated conclusively that if this drive had been started a few days earlier Strong Vincent would have captured the cage championship to place along with the new trophies for football and swimming. In the games played in the second half of the season, the Colonels showed such amazing power that they were the absolute rulers of Erie courts. As a sports writer said after we had defeated Tech 29-23, and then trounced Academy 42-17, "the Vincent team last night proved itself to be the outstanding combine in the city, even though East took the title, by the narrowest of margins." The boys accomplished one particularly gratifying feat this past season—they broke the East High jinx. In the five years that we have been Strong Vincent, we had never defeated the Warriors in basketball until the night of January 24, when on the east siders' home court we beat them 30-23, and gained very pleasant retribution for the successive losses which had been handed us in previous years. So the basketball season turned out very happily, to say the least, and with the prospects of a more experienced team for next year, we may rest assured that this sport has proved its worth to the student body.

Track

A noticeably increased interest has been aroused in scholastic track competition this season. The largest and most promising team in years is working out daily under Mr. Cochrane, and great achievements are expected from the unusual number of sophomores, as well as the upper classmen, who are competing for places on the squad. Some of those boys who are in fine early season form are—Captain Harkins, Prendergast, Valimont, and Hutchings. Along with these are others who will carry the burden of responsibility when the present varsity squad has graduated.

The most ambitious schedule that has ever been arranged for our track team has been completed for the coming season—

April 27	Alliance	Home
May 1	Open
May 4	Bradford	Away
May 8	Dunkirk	Away
May 11	Silver Creek	Home
May 15	East	Home
May 18	District Meet	Away

Second Row: Brown, Kramer, Hilditch.

Third Row: Mr. McCarthy, Hill, Martin, MacDonald, Schutter, Mr. Weibel.

Fourth Row: Schaper, Baur, Wright, Skelton.

Not in Picture: Murtland, Manager.

Swimming

At the end of the keenest, most exciting, and hardest fought campaign in local swimming history, Strong Vincent had added another championship to her laurels. Our swimmers sailed right through the first half of their schedule, downing East, Tech, and Academy by decisive scores. A fluke disqualification beat them by a close margin in the second meet with Tech, however, both teams finally ended in a tie for top honors. The rules called for a swim-off to decide the championship—the first in Erie history. In a hectic and savagely thrilling encounter, the Vincent fish defeated Tech 38-37, winning the title for the Red and Black. Then, facing overwhelming paper odds, the Colonels proceeded to walk off with the quadrangular meet, winning five individual championships and rolling up 35 points to Tech's 26, Academy's 25, and East's 20. Several other successful trips were made by the team at the conclusion of the city meets. To Art Weible, the coach, and to every member of the championship swimming team, the KERNEL extends its heartiest congratulations. May the next year carry you to even greater success!

First Row: Skelton, Cutri, Serena.

Second Row: Dolan, Hilditch, Zacks, Schaper, Franklin.

Third Row: MacDonald, Hill, Martin, Dinges.

Fourth Row: Murtland, Mgr., Dundon, Wright, Becker, Hinchcliff, Weibel, Coach.

Water Polo

Composed of practically the same group as that which decisively captured the city swimming title, the Water Polo team began practice immediately at the close of the local swimming campaign. The seasons for these two sports had been made separate and distinct, and stiffer competition, as well as increased interest, was soon evident. Then, too, the fact that two games were being played in the same place, at night, helped to draw the crowds of enthusiastic supporters. In the first game our team held Tech to a 3-3 tie in a thrilling overtime battle, but a week later dropped a decision to East. The Colonels came back to whip Academy 5-0, however, and the League moved into the second half. This time they were more successful against Tech, and again trounced Academy. East's powerful, driving play was a bit too strong to be overcome by the ever-fighting Red and Black team, and Vincent was forced to take runner-up position in the hard fought series. This year's players included Mitchell, Wright, Schaper, Skelton, MacDonald, Dolan, Cutri, Serena, Hill, Hinchcliff and Dinges.

First Row: Stickle, Carson, Mackey, Dailey, Walizer.

Second Row: DiFrancesco, Scherer, Zell, Dunham.

Third Row: Acheson, O'Connor, Davis, Jr. Captain, Graham, Cheeks, Eschner.

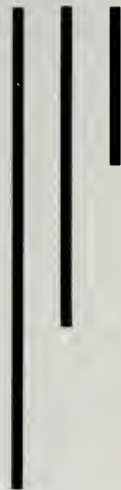

Fourth Row: Miss Weinheimer, Sterrett, Patterson, Walling, Butler, Sr. Captain, M. North, Meiser, Sawdey.

Fifth Row: Pearce, McGaughney, Cauley, Hampel, B. North, Carstatter, Meyer.

Sixth Row: Smith, Berst, Humphreys, Andrews, Heath, Vieyra, Phelps.

Girls' Swimming and Letter Club

In what was probably the most successful year it has thus far enjoyed, the Strong Vincent Girls' Swimming team missed winning the city tank crown by only one point. When the smoke cleared from the thrilling Triangular battle, the final score stood East 29, Strong Vincent 28, and Academy 12. The Vincent girls, under Miss Weinheimer's splendid coaching, won three out of eight blue ribbons. Shirley Butler, captain of the Vincent squad, came within one second of the WORLD'S record in winning the 100 yard freestyle event in the flashy time of 1:04.4. She scored a decisive victory over Betty Crotty, the East High star who had so long ruled the waves at that distance, and showed promise of a brilliant future in swimming. Mary Walling, another Vincent winner, outclassed the field in the breast-stroke event. The Vincent 120-yard Medley relay team, composed of Helen Patterson, Mary Walling and Margaret North, swept to an impressive victory in the final race of the evening. The highest honor that a Strong Vincent girl athlete can win is membership in the Letter Club. To be eligible for this club, a girl must have been a member of the Swimming team, or have played on a winning combination in the intra-murals.

Strong Vincent is proud of this organization, which carries on the legislative branches of the school activities. The Council is composed of two members elected from each home room, one serving as delegate, the other as alternate. These members attend the weekly meetings, and report the business which was conducted to their respective rooms the following morning. In this way the student body is kept informed of the progress of various projects which are in charge of standing and temporary committees. Some of the annual work undertaken by this group includes: the presentation of the Grand Carnival—the most important event of the school calendar—the awarding of school letters for competitive participation in all school events, the sponsoring of dances and plays, the organizing and providing for social work, such as Christmas baskets and other aids to the needy of our own school, and the granting of generous sums of money to school activities which need the financial backing for trips, uniforms, or equipment.

National Honor Society

Robert Baur President

Chestine Kuebler Vice-President

Olive Schroyer Secretary

Miss Inez Mercer Treasurer

It is an accepted mark of genuine distinction for a student to be a member of this society, just as it is a great privilege for Strong Vincent to be the only Erie high school having a chapter of it. The National Honor Society is composed of a small, select group of Juniors and Seniors who are elected semi-annually by a body of representative teachers called a Senate. These people must be at the very top of their class scholastically, and they also must excel in a variety of extra-curricular activities. Four main points are considered in judging the qualifications of a candidate for membership in this nation-wide organization: Character, Scholarship, Leadership, and Service. The members of the National Honor Society have been awarded the most coveted tribute that Strong Vincent is capable of conferring upon them.

Band

Robert Dugan	President
Herbert Mitchell	Vice-President
Richard Schapter	Secretary
Edward Zacks	Treasurer
John Ramsay Brown	Director

What a stirring moment it is when our snappy band marches across the green of the stadium, playing a rousing military tune and stealing a place in the heart of every interested onlooker! For who is not attracted by a nattily attired musical organization, swinging in time to a popular number, and spurring on to victory a group of boys who are fighting with everything they have for their Alma Mater? The Strong Vincent band is one of our very best representatives, because wherever it goes, accompanying a team or on its own, this group of "good fellows" draws both attention and praise. Many spirited arguments are raised as to which possesses the most appeal—its appearance or the fine tonal quality of its selections. Certainly the combination of the two results in an altogether pleasing offering—a high school band second to none. A boy who belongs to this organization is the envy of all his classmates, and justly so—it is a great privilege to play for the Red and Black.

Not content to see the football and swimming teams romp away with city championship honors, the debating team set out this year with a new policy, determined to show the student body that Strong Vincent is represented in forensic activities as well as it is in athletics. That our speakers have accomplished their ambitious aims is proved by the phenomenally successful season they have just completed. The Vincent debaters entered the newly organized Lake Erie Debating League, which comprised the schools of Erie and surrounding cities of New York and Pennsylvania, and proceeded to walk off with the title of high scoring team, winning 7 out of 8 contests and clearly demonstrating their evident superiority over their opponents, who were all competing for a silver loving cup and individual medals, awarded by Allegheny College. Aside from their triumphant League campaign, the Red and Black orators acquitted themselves very well in the competition afforded by the independent debates which were held with Washington and Jefferson College and with Cleveland Heights School. The past season, witnessing the heaviest debate schedule in Strong Vincent history, has served to advance greatly the enviable reputation which interscholastic debating holds as one of the most worthy of all activities.

A'Capella Choir

Don Steiner	President
Esther Holcomb	Vice-President
Georgette Bayer	Secretary
Robert Steiner	Treasurer

Three years ago the Boys' Glee Club and the Girls' Chorus merged into a larger, more universally popular unit, the A'Capella Choir. It was determined that this organization should be the outstanding chorus of mixed voices in Erie. An abundance of talent flourished at Vincent, and we had an able director in Mr. O. L. Grender. The need for uniforms was soon recognized, and steps were taken to fill it, but not until last Spring, when the Choir sponsored "Pattie," were the funds available. Early this fall work was begun in the sewing classes, and with the help of the Parent-Teacher Association the robes were ready in time for the Christmas program. This group presented a striking picture in its beautiful green and white uniforms, and received many fine notices for its distinctive appearance. In technique, the A'Capella Choir is as brilliant a body as there is in the city. At the time of this writing the Chorus has entered upon a succession of concerts which will continue until the night of Commencement. Each performance adds many new followers to the audience of this exceptional Choir. May its future success be long and unbroken!

Ushers

Their service characterized by an unswerving devotion to duty, this resolute, capable group of young men has done a clean-cut job of handling the Auditorium programs. Under their watchful care and guidance, noise and confusion have been all but eliminated. Visitors to Strong Vincent go away satisfied when they have been courteously and efficiently taken care of, carrying with them only favorable comments. This enterprising group has earned the hearty approval of everyone by its splendid work throughout the year.

Cheerleaders

Pep, punch, enthusiasm, a big, strong voice, a bit of dash, and a vast amount of hard work—these are the ingredients that go to make up an effective cheerleader. Every time this group of cheerleaders works, in Auditorium, at football games, or on special occasions, it gives ample proof of its possession, in the superlative, of the above mentioned qualities. To them must go a major portion of the credit for the outstanding successes of our teams, for it was they who instilled in the student body a burning desire to win. This invariably is half the battle.

Hi-Y

Jack Bonney	President
Emory Austin	Vice-President
Robert Dugan	Secretary
Robert Steiner	Treasurer
Mr. Pratt	Faculty Adviser

The Strong Vincent chapter of the Hi-Y is one of the most active clubs of the school, and has made a fine name for itself among the leaders of this type of organization. At the beginning of the year, initiation and induction ceremonies were held, through which thirteen new members were received into the club. Meetings are held every Monday evening at the Y.M.C.A. under the able supervision of Mr. Max Darone. During the course of the season the Hi-Y brought a number of prominent speakers to Erie who gave a great deal of helpful information to the large group of boys which gathered at the appointed time. Some of these men included—Mr. W. W. Crackel of Cleveland, who is the founder of the new Y.M.C.A. in Jerusalem, Mr. John Z. Miller of Lehigh University, and our own Mr. James Smith, city health director. Vincent sent delegates to cabinet meetings at Edinboro, Cambridge Springs, and Bradford.

Girl Reserves

Helen Nicklas	President
Virginia Ross	Vice-President
Esther Holcomb	Secretary
Mary Walling	Treasurer
Madeline Arrowsmith	Chairman of Program Committee
Misses Mercer, Wilson, Burger	Advisers

A tremendous boost in membership (from 50 to 175) has diffused new life, new spirit into the Girl Reserve organization, and many unusually fine social meetings this year have been a direct result. Proving that it seeks more than a mere good time, this group has rendered much service to the school and the city, and has sponsored several worth-while educational programs. The girls helped sell Christmas Seals for the Tuberculosis Society, donated a Worthy Girl membership to the Y.W.C.A., and contributed generously toward the Christmas basket drive by Student Council. A delightful program was presented at the Old Ladies Home. Tureen suppers at the "Y" are note-worthy events, as are the numerous teas. The Faculty always comes in for its share of tea-ing, and the club gives a delightful supper nearly every six weeks. The Girl Reserve organization has undoubtedly exercised a great moral and spiritual influence on the lives of its members, providing them an opportunity to do real service to the school and the community, as well as to enjoy themselves in wholesome contact with their fellow members.

German Club

Addison Gerbracht.....President

James Bothwell.....Vice-President

Richard Rubner.....Secretary-Treasurer

This thoroughly progressive organization has sought to instill in its members additional zest for the fascinating study of the German Language. It strives to delve below the mere surface of the nation's literature, and determine real influences, customs, interests—in short, to know the German people in all their complicated sides. Composed practically of the elite of Miss Kohout's German Classes, this energetic group meets on the second Monday of every month. Varied, original programs are the order of the day—nearly anything is permissible. The school enjoyed a sample of their work during the past year in Auditorium when they presented "Little Red-Riding Hood," replete with German dialogue, appropriate (if a little fantastic) costuming, and a spontaneously infectious cast. A salute to Miss Kohout, her wide-awake charges, and the outstanding work they have done!

Vergil Club

Mary Fitzmaurice } Consuls

Miss Mercer Faculty Adviser

Every year the students of Roman Vergil band themselves together in order to inquire into the humorous side of the lives of the Ancients. Adhering to Roman custom, the club elects two consuls, who are in charge alternate months, and who plan the spicy programs. It is an avowed purpose of the Vergil Club to entertain as well as to instruct—in both aims it is completely successful. A thoroughly enjoyable time was experienced throughout the year under Miss M. Inez Mercer, who, as everyone soon learns, has infinite ability to make this difficult course delightful and inspiring.

The newspaper has a definite, exacting function in the school it serves: it must report all the news—accurately, vividly; it recognizes, thereby stimulates, achievement; it provides the contacts necessary to bring out literary talent and excellence in journalistic endeavor; and it is a powerful factor in molding a progressive, energetic student body, awake to its opportunities. That the Strong Vincent News has fulfilled its mission is amply proved by the unprecedented support it has received from the school as a whole. The staff has worked hard in establishing the News as an influential organ, a lasting institution, responsive to the will of Strong Vincent.

"Forward Pass"

During the second half of the 1934-35 school calendar, the Student Council, in cooperation with the John B. Rogers Producing Company, had the pleasure of presenting a thrilling new musical comedy of campus adventure and romance—"Forward Pass." Directed by Mr. Lee Winters, and given to packed houses on March 14 and 15, this play proved one of the finest evening's entertainment ever offered from the Strong Vincent stage. The cast—

Tom Linn, a student at Clayton College	William Sullivan
"Shady" Lane, a freshman	James Shoemaker
Chuck Smithers, another student	Robert Steiner
Vonja, a Gypsy fortune teller	Marjorie Stein
"Shadow" Wert, the landlady's daughter	Elizabeth McDannell
Susie Lewis, a freshman	Carol Russell
Hector Tiddles, who wants to play football	James Eisenberg
Mary Clanahan, the coach's daughter	Anne Walden
Pat Clanahan, coach at Clayton	Robert Daily
Mrs. Tiddles, Hector's mother	Myrtle Prussin
Tony Lagella, who deals in pop	James De Santis
Alexander Fordyce, of the faculty	John Shreve
Mr. Musty, of the board of directors	Francis Lavery
Mr. Crusty, another of the board	Al Condon
Mr. Dusty, also of the board	Harrison Moran

Orchestra

John Orlando	President
Harlie Reynard	Vice-President
Alice Swenson	Secretary
Mary Kern	Treasurer

That a high school orchestra plays an important part in school activities is proved by the excellent work accomplished by this year's group of musicians. Under the capable leadership of Mr. John Ramsay Brown, the orchestra has made a number of successful appearances throughout the year, playing for commencement exercises, class plays, Parent-Teacher meetings, and for the Clare Tree Major productions. Socially, this organization has been very active, and the skating party which was given in February was well attended. The Strong Vincent orchestra certainly deserves the utmost support of every student, and we feel sure that the listener derives almost as much benefit and worthwhile diversion as the person who interprets the musical notes.

Monitors

Since the early years of Strong Vincent, the Monitors have grown in size, influence, and in the amount of respect they command. At the present time they are 90 in number, composed almost exclusively of students anxious to do their part for the school. The highly important work they do is keeping order in the halls during class-room hours, policing the Cafeteria, checking those who are excused for lunch, and directing visitors in the building. Their continued success is due in large part to the untiring, persistent crusades for better conduct carried on by each individual member of this organization. Cooperation by the great majority of students has likewise helped to bring Strong Vincent nearer the desired goal of Quietness and Tranquillity in the halls. To Miss Burger must go our deepest admiration for the thoroughly capable manner in which she has organized and directed the workings of the Monitor system. To each member of this powerful, influential machine go the thanks of the entire school for the sacrifices of time and effort which he has made for the common good.

Finis

The end has been reached—the last page of the KERNEL and the conclusion of our high school experiences. We take leave of Strong Vincent with mixed emotions—proudly, at the thought of the magnificent institution which has fostered us, developed us, and given us our secondary education; sadly, in the knowledge that the carefree days are now just pleasant memories; happily, enriched by the beneficial contacts, both mental and spiritual, we have received from teacher and fellow student. It is a difficult moment for us all. Our work is done—what lies ahead? Let us wish for everyone a future containing only the finest of each venture to come—a life crowded with worthwhile activities, sincere friendships, and fulfilled ambitions.

Editor in Chief.
